9. Teaching Interests/Experience

At NCCU and also at IGIDR, taught a course on 'Human Development'. The course discussed conceptual aspects such as Sen's Capability and Rawls' Justice among others, issues of measurement, governance and participation, developmental issues of education and health and other related areas. For hands-on experience, students have to do a field-survey as part of the course requirement. I was also instructor for the 'Research Methodology' course at IGIDR that was designed to facilitate learning-by-doing. Earlier, at GIPE, I have taught courses/modules on 'Statistical Prerequisites' and 'Microeconomics'.
